BACKGROUND

During World War I, over a million Indian soldiers served in various regions, including Europe, Africa, and the Middle East, alongside Canadian forces in key Western Front battles like Ypres, Neuve Chapelle, the Somme, and Vimy Ridge.

In 1914, the arrival of Indian troops in Flanders prevented the Germans from taking crucial ports, allowing the Canadian Expeditionary Force to land in Europe.

Indian and British forces held the line in the first battle of Ypres, and six months later, Canadians joined them for the second battle of Ypres.

The memorial will honor the sacrifices of Indian and Canadian soldiers, providing a space for reflection and remembrance.

Over time, it will evolve into a serene green space with a stone memorial, trails, and benches, telling the untold stories of their brotherhood and shared history.

The addition of a stormwater pond will enhance the peaceful ambiance, making it a meaningful site for reflection and commemoration.
